Graphic and music intro as if the "Believe It or Not" television show is coming on.

Announ: Good evening. Tonight we have a special episode of "Believe It or Not" in which several of our past guests will try to outdo one another with strange and hard-to-believe facts. Each of our guests will share his or her most bizarre facts until we are left with only one winner who has given the details of an event that is the hardest to believe! So let's get started with our guests right now!

One: Your body is creating and killing 15 million red blood cells per second!

Two: During your lifetime, you'll eat about 60,000 pounds of food. That's the weight of about 6 elephants!

Three: The world's oldest piece of chewing gum is over 9,000 years old!

Four: A sneeze travels out your mouth at over 100 mph!

Announ: Oh, wasn't that exciting? We've made it through one round and still have all of our contestants doing fine. Are you ready for more?

One: A man named Charles Osborne had the hiccups for 69 years!

Two: If you counted 24 hours a day, it would take 31,688 years to reach one trillion!

ENDING:

Announ: Do you have another fact?

One: (Still thinking)

Announ: Five seconds. Do you have anything?

One: Two thousand years ago, a woman who was a virgin had a baby in a stable. This baby was God's son who came down to earth to show His love for each one of us. He later was crucified and came back to life, so that if we believe in him we too can have everlasting life!

Contestant Three and Announcer stand there not knowing what to say.

Announ: (To Contestant 3) Do you have anything more bizarre than that?

Three: (Shakes his head and walks off)

Announ: Well, folks you heard it right here. That's right...woman, baby, stable,
God's son, came back from the dead, and so on...so it's up to you to
"Believe It or Not!"

Blackout. The end.
