

“A Fun Call to Worship: The Principal”

by
Ginny Neil

- What In this skit, a principal makes several mistakes during the morning announcements, reminding us that we all make mistakes and can lean on God for wisdom.
- Themes: Worship, Praise, Wisdom, Mistakes
- Who Principal- male or female
Voice- offstage- male or female
- When Present
- Costumes and Props Business attire
Microphone
Bell sound
Principal desk plate
Table
Hair
- Why Psalms 111:10, 107:43
- How Although these are silly skits, the humor should not overshadow the invitational feel at the end. While the setting is a principal’s office, this could also be set as a student assembly and you can add an administrative assistant in lieu of an offstage voice that keeps approaching the principal to correct him/her.
- Have fun with this! Feel free to ad lib your own lines as well.
- Time Approximately 1 minute

There's a desk with a microphone on it and a desk plate that says Principal. The Principal enters and sits down. School bell rings and Principal blows into microphone several times.

Principal: Is this thing on? Testing! Testing! 1,2,3 testing.

Voice: You have to push the button.

Principal: (places hand over mike and looks back) The left one?

Voice: Right.

Principal: The right one?

Voice: No, the left one.

Principal: Right.

Voice: THE LEFT BUTTON. PUSH THE LEFT BUTTON!

Principal: (exaggerated frustration) Okay already. (pushes button and speaks with great pride and importance into the microphone) Welcome students and staff. These are your morning announcements. We are on block schedule C today.

Voice: We're on Schedule B today.

Places hand over mike and looks back at voice.

Principal: We are? (speaking into microphone) Correction. We are on block schedule B today. Block schedule C is tomorrow.

Voice: Tomorrow is Saturday.

Principal: (places hand over mike and looks back at offstage voice) Oh, yeah. It is. (turns back to mike) Correction to the correction. Tomorrow is Saturday. Block Schedule C is Monday.

Voice: Monday is a holiday.

Principal: (places hand over mike and looks backstage) Oops! I forgot. (speaking in microphone) Correction to the correction to the correction. I don't know when Block Schedule C is.

Voice: No kidding.

Principal: (hand over mike looking backstage, a bit annoyed) Well, I may not know much, but I do know this—even when I lack wisdom, Psalm 111:10 tells me that the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom and Psalm 107:43 tells me that whoever is wise, will consider the steadfast love of the Lord.

Voice: Good point.

Principal: (blowing into mike) Is this thing still on? Testing, testing. Whatever the schedule is or isn't, let us approach the Lord with fear and reverence as we consider His steadfast love. That is all, thank you.

Lights out.

TO

REMOVE

WATERMARK

AT

SKITGUYS.COM