

A script from

“All Mom Wants: For Thanksgiving”

by Skitzy Chicks
www.skitzychicks.com

- What Two moms take a moment to express their excitement for the Thanksgiving holiday, full of fun family memories...well at least for one of them. Themes: Thanksgiving, Moms, Family, Crazy holiday, Blessings, Thankful
- Who Carrie
Melinda
- When Thanksgiving season; Present
- Wear (Props) Each should wear casual, but season appropriate clothes.
Set a table as much as possible
Jar of sweet potato baby food- this is for the end of the script
- Why Galatians 6:9; 1 Thessalonians 5:18
- How This works best if your audience can see the signs clearly, so if your worship center is set up with a screen and camera, make sure to work with your media minister to get a good shot of the signs. Be sure to practice together to get the timing of each sign.
*For more ideas, watch a video preview of “All Mom Wants: For Thanksgiving”
- Time Approximately 2-3 minutes

Melinda and Carrie are sitting at a dinner table that is set and decorated for Thanksgiving dinner. Melinda holds up signs as Carrie addresses the audience. Words in bold and italics are what the signs should say.*

As we prepare for Thanksgiving, Melinda and I would to take a moment to reflect on the blessings of this season. All we want as moms is a peaceful celebration with family.

I think Cancun's peaceful this time of year.

The time we spend preparing the food that will grace our table is our gift to our loved ones.

I have been up since two a.m.

Each morsel is a token of our love and appreciation for our family.

No one told me to thaw the turkey first.

Our reward is the smiles that light up your beautiful faces and the hugs from appreciative spouses.

Turn that game off and get over here and help.

We count the hours of decorating, grocery shopping and baking as small steps toward a forever memory, snapshots of our special day together.

Let's hold off until we see how the stuffing turns out.

In fact, this is the first year Melinda (or partner's name) has had the opportunity to host her extended family's Thanksgiving.

To read the rest of this script and perform it, download the full version at SkitGuys.com!

ENDING:

And be prepared to be surprised at how truly blessed you are.

I don't know if I can stand anymore blessings...

"All Mom Wants: For Thanksgiving"

One last word to mom's: Be careful not to fall into the trap of doing everything yourself. Let your children participate in the preparations so that they may be a blessing to others.

Sweet potatoes fly in Melinda's face. If you are performing this on stage, you might have a child run out to fling sweet potatoes on her. Baby food works best since it's already made, is the right color and will stick to the face. Melinda yells "That's it!" and takes off after the child.

Happy Thanksgiving, everyone!

Lights out. The end.