“Cubicles”

by
Mitch Teemley

- What A young Christian man and a non-Christian woman (co-workers) invite each other to events at their respective houses. Both are terrified at what sort of event “that kind of person” might throw. Themes: Evangelism, Relationships, Misconceptions, Witnessing, Sharing your Faith
- Who Chris
Heather
- When Present Day
- Wear (Props) 2 Chairs and a cubicle divider to suggest an office setting
Video clips:
The Ten Commandments- "Golden calf worship" clip
Monty Python's Search for the Holy Grail- "Monks hitting selves in face with boards" clip
- Why Exodus 4:12, Luke 12:12, 1 Corinthians 9:21-23
- How Keep the dialogue quick and play up the humor. Make sure to work the transitions between the videos so they are seamless.
- Time Approximately 2-3 minutes

Chris rises from his seat, microwave lunch in hand.

Chris: Yes! Lunch time! (Reading instructions aloud to himself) Let's see: "Obsessive Compulsive Gourmet Microwave Instructions: Remove from box, poke holes at ½ inch intervals in counter-clockwise pattern. Microwave for 8.43 minutes, then remove plastic, stir vigorously for 6¾ seconds, and replace plastic in exactly same position it occupied before you removed it." Jeez! (Looks up) Oops, sorry, Lord—did that count as cussing?

Heather: (From cubicle opposite him) I doubt it.

Chris: Oh, hi, Heather.

Heather: (Seeing his entrée) Hey, Chris. Is that Obsessive Compulsive Gourmet? Those are great. I've got Grungy Man Beastloaf. Wanna swap?

ENDING:

Chris: Oh, hey, uh...I was just thinking. I'm having Fellowship Night at my place on Wednesday. It's a lot of fun. We study the Bible and, you know, just get kinda crazy. Maybe you'd like to come?

Heather: (Deer in the headlights) Oh, uh, well...I mean, I've got...I mean...hmmm, "Fellowship Night..."

Heather looks up, imagining Chris's "Fellowship Night."

Video: "Monks hitting selves in faces with boards" scene from "Monty Python and the Holy Grail" (or comparable clip) – 10 to 20 seconds.

Chris: Heather? Heather? Are you-?

Heather: Oh, hey, um...sorry.

Both: (In unison) So? (Beat) Sure, I'll come. (Beat) You will? Great! (Chuckle) Well, bye.

Another chuckle. They start off in opposite directions, then pause, and speak to selves.

Chris: Holy Spirit-

Heather: Holy crud-

Both: (In unison) What have I gotten myself into?
