Angel is dressed like a reporter and is waiting on stage for Gabriel to return. Gabriel enters, having completed his task and reports to Angel.

Gabriel: She's good.

Angel: What?!

Gabriel: She's good to go.

Angel: Whoa, whoa wait a minute.

Gabriel: What?

Angel: That's it? I mean that was fast. You're done?

Gabriel: Yup.

Angel: I need details. Did you talk to her in a dream? That always goes a little smoother.

Gabriel: Nope. God said He wanted me to talk to this one face to face.

Angel: How did you go?

Gabriel: What do you mean?

Angel: Did you disguise your 'angel-ness' a little bit?

Gabriel: My 'angel-ness'?

Angel: You know what I mean.

Gabriel: (Rolls his eyes) No. I went like this.

Angel: You just wore that?

Gabriel: (Slight freak out) What's wrong with my robe? My halo's not crooked, right? I looked in a mirror before I went.

Angel: You look fine.

Gabriel: (Relieved) You scared me for a minute. God said this one was important. I wanted to look my best.

Angel: I'm just shocked it went so well. I mean she is a human.

Gabriel: Well, she was a little scared at first.

Angel: (Writing on clip board) Had to do the whole "Fear Not" speech?

Gabriel: Yup.

Angel: What about us is so frightening?

Gabriel: Seriously. In Human Interaction 101 I thought memorizing the "Fear Not" speech was going to be frivolous.

Angel: According to my notes, that one is used the most.

Gabriel: That's what I'm saying.

Angel: Anyways, what was Mary's response? I mean after the whole, "I'm Gabriel, don't be afraid" thing.

Gabriel: I told her that she was going to have a baby.

Angel: And...

Gabriel: Well, I did actually have to explain that one a little bit.

Angel: Right. Right.

Gabriel: Then she just said, "I am the Lord's servant..." umm I'm trying to remember it exactly.

Angel: Wait. Wait. There weren't any more questions?

Gabriel: Like what?

Angel: Like what!? Like "How am I supposed to tell Joseph?" (Pause) You told her that you would talk to him in a dream, didn't you?

Gabriel: Nope.

Angel: Come on.

Gabriel: No. No. I didn't. God didn't tell me to.

Angel: Really?! What about... umm what about... (pretending to be Mary) "how am I going to explain this to my parents?"

Gabriel: Do you think that's really going to be a problem?

Angel: Do I think that's going to be a problem?! (Pretending to be Mary) "Mom, Dad, I'm pregnant, but don't worry God did it."

Pause.

Gabriel: I'm beginning to see your point.

Angel: Did she even mention what she should do if she should be shunned? Or if the town wanted to stone her? I mean this is going to be looked on as adultery.

Gabriel: Mary didn't commit adultery.

Angel: I know that and you know that, but who else is going to believe that she saw an angel? I mean we don't just appear to everyone.

Gabriel: Although lately my errands have been picking up.

Angel: I've noticed.

Gabriel: Zachariah was a trip!

Angel: That one seemed to take a little longer.

Gabriel: Well, all of the "How can I be sure? Isn't my wife too old? Aren't I too old?" Yadda, yadda, yadda. That man can talk!

Angel: Well, at least he used to.

Gabriel: Right.

Angel: I'm just surprised Mary didn't have any other questions. She didn't even ask you why He decided to go as a baby? I mean, I'm still questioning that one.

Gabriel: Nope. She just said, (trying to remember it correctly) "I am the Lord's servant, may it be to me as you have said."

Angel: Wow. (Recording Mary's response on a clip board) You sure that's verbatim?

Gabriel: Yup. What version are you reporting for?

Angel: The New International.

Gabriel: Good. Good.

Gabriel: (Looking at his watch) Okay. I've got to appear to Joseph in a dream.

Angel: And then you have to get that choir ready. I mean last practice was sounding a little pitchy.

They begin to exit.

Gabriel: Pitchy?!

Angel: I'm just saying. It's going to be a silent night. One wrong note in an a capella choir...this is going to be recorded for the ages.

Gabriel: You worry too much. Those herald angels will be harking in key.

Lights fade.
