- R1: This Advent Season, we take time to remember the miracle of the Incarnation, the wonder of Jesus' birth.
- R1: One cell inside of her,
- R2: The world outside her body is chaos.
- R1: The star is already in the sky and the wise men on their camels are coming.
- R2: The cell divides and life is stirring in her womb.
- R1: Mary, on the lonely road to Bethlehem remembers the moment when the angel came.
- R2: She rests her hand nervously on her stomach and whispers to it,
- R1: "You are that you are—inside of me"
- R2: Her quiet words are carried by the stale desert wind to their proper place
- R1: And heard by the God of heaven.
- R2: And he is pleased.
- R1: One cell inside of her,
- R2: Now four, then eight...
- R1: Now the familiar form of a human child
- R2: So delicate—the God of the universe unborn,
- R1: Yet the same yesterday, the same forever.
- R2: The fullness of time has arrived and all of heaven is waiting,
- R1: Like every human breath since the creation has been held until this one moment,
- R2: For the fresh air of beginning.
- R1: And when she arrives, ready to give birth to the child in the city of David,
- R2: The whole host of heaven is watching.

R1: What they witness is a young woman push through pain, with tears.
R2: What they do not yet see are the images of a Teacher,
R1: Fisherman, a field of sheep,
R2: A man walking on water toward terrified disciples.
R1: The same strong man nailed to that terrible tree,
R2: His blood poured out for you and me.
R1: Nor can they see the moment when stars were formed,
R2: And a tender hand gathered up dust
R1: To form the First Adam.
R2: As Mary cries out, what they see is a Second Adam, God's only son, born into the world,
R1: And all the host of heaven cry
Both: "Holy, holy, holy is the Lamb!"
R2: Mary wraps him in a warm cloth and draws him to herself,
R1: Touching the arm of her husband she speaks to the child,
R2: Afraid to disturb the holy silence:
R1: "God is with us."
R2: This Advent we remember that God sent his Son into the world
R1: And the miracle of the Incarnation is that He is with us still.
