

A script from

“Love Words”

by

Eddie James and Tommy Woodard

Additions by Knox McCoy

- W hat Two friends are choosing cards for their wives. One thinks he’s the “wife-whisperer” who knows what women want, but the other just wants to tell his wife what’s in his heart. (Themes: Love, Valentines Day, Mother’s Day, Relationships, Commitment, Communication, Words, Marriage)
- W ho 2 males
- W hen Present
- W ear Card
(Props) Should dress casual
You can go as far as you’d like with this skit - make it look like a card shop or keep it simple by just pantomiming your surroundings.
- W hy 1 Corinthians 13
- How Keep the dialogue casual. The actor playing Tommy should have a good sense of timing and not be afraid to “get silly”. For more ideas on how to perform this sketch check out the video at www.skitguys.com.
- Ti m e Approximately 2-3 minutes; This script is 2 pages long.

Two guys in a card store are trying to pick out cards for their wives.

Tommy: Got it! (card in hand) She's gonna love it. Let's go.

Eddie: Wait! How did you find a card so fast?

Tommy: I am a speaker of lady language. I hear their voices in my head. Much like Beethoven heard music.

Eddie: No, I think that's just voices.

Tommy: Either way, I've got a card and you don't.

Eddie: I'm trying to find one with the right words! I've read all these cards and I can't find one to describe my feelings.

Tommy: What about this one? (Trying to help, handing a card.)

Eddie: This one? This one right here? Okay... (reading the card.) "Sugar is sweet and so is honey, I bought you this card because I didn't have any money."

Tommy: That is sooo you!

Eddie: No it's not. It's not me!

To read the rest of this script and perform it, download the full version at SkitGuys.com!