What This short skit portrays the devil asking for proof of God’s love. The core of our faith is in God’s love. When we’re asked to defend our belief in that love, in the face of constant turmoil, do we have an answer that will quiet the voice of doubt and give us a firm foundation to stand on? Themes: Trusting, Faith, God's Love, Knowing the Word, Doubt, Knowing God's Voice

Who Devil

When Present

Wear

Why Luke 4:1-13; John 20:24-29; 1 Peter 3:15; Psalms 57:1; Job 42:1-6; Psalm 136

How Be prepared for a wide variety of reactions to this skit. It will get people talking about tough issues, and in the process of questioning, lead them to new depths in their faith. The actor portraying the Devil should not be overly dramatic, but very conversational.

Bonus! Discussion questions are provided at the end of this script.

Time Approximately 2-3 minutes

The Devil is wearing sunglasses, walking to center stage as he enters from either side. Throughout the piece, he is speaking to the audience.

Devil: (Speaking to the audience, arrogantly, with a challenging tone of voice)
Prove to me God's love. Do you believe God loves you? Prove it to me. Give me tangible proof of his love. And don't just say, "the Bible told me so" or "Jesus loved you (he puts his arms in the shape of the cross) this much." Those are Sunday School answers. It's not tangible proof. Prove to me God's love.

Pausing, then continuing his challenge.

Because when I look at the world I don't see God's love. Instead, I see millions of people dying from natural disasters. You've got tornadoes, earthquakes, hurricanes- all killing innocent people. Millions of women and children dying from starvation and drought, and ya know, God can change all that. The wind and the waves, they obey Him, right? He can bring the rain or make it stop- but He doesn't. Now, does that sound like love to you?

ENDING:

If God truly loved you, don't you think He would take whatever it is that separates you from Him? Remove it and come down here? Walk with you and you would never have to question his existence again?

Fired up.

Do you believe God loves you?

Then prove it to me. Prove it to me!

Pausing, almost laughing as he continues.

You can't prove it to me. And you can't prove it to yourself.

After a brief moment, looking at the audience, he exits the stage. Lights fade. The end.

Note: This skit is intended to provoke discussion. Be prepared to discuss the questions brought up throughout the script.

Discussion Questions:

1. What does the bible say about God's love?

2. Is there tangible proof of God's love?
3. How do we answer the world's tough questions?
4. How did Jesus deal with the question of proof?
